Is it the right time to become a doTERRA essential oil wholesale distributor?

I believe that the timing is right whenever someone believes its right. A few years ago I had a man subscribe to my newsletter. He was looking for more information, but didn't join doTERRA until 12 months later. It was simply because the time was not right for him to join. Twelve months later he joined doTERRA and became fully committed.

This may be the same process you will go through, if you subscribe to my newsletter. So, remember, join doTERRA when the timing and you can be committed to being successful.

What is doTERRA?

Many people that start to look at doTERRA first reaction is, "I hate MLM", but then forgive doTERRA for being exactly that. The main reason is because they realize, how different doTERRA is compared with other older MLM businesses. Bare in mind that doTERRA is apart of the new generation of MLM business that have needed to comply with laws governing direct sales, even before getting stated. Older companies on the other hand have needed to change their business culture. This made it difficult for many to integrate the new rules into their business model. This has created a unique opportunity for doTERRA to create a more inclusive work culture. One only needs to attend one of their conventions to understand how different they are.

Is doTERRA a new company?

doTERRA is a relatively new direct sales company opening its doors in 2008. Their main product line is therapeutic grade essential oils that are sold in the tradition of direct sales and MLM. Since the early days, doTERRA has expanded all over the world including the US, Canada, Europe, South Africa, Australia and many other countries.

Are you new to doTERRA?

If this is your first time looking at doTERRA and have read other reviews or overviews you will notice how positive they are. However, the other positive aspect of joining doTERRA is that it hasn't reached it growth curve yet. This means unlike more long-established companies doTERRA has got a lot of growing to do. This means anyone joining now will be able to enjoy the economic benefits of riding the growth curve to the end.
